DETAILED ACTION

Supplemental Action

This action supplements the previous Final Action mailed May 6, 2010.

Response to Amendment

This Responsive to 'Response to Election/Restriction' filed February 4, 2010. Applicant's election with traverse of Group II (claims 51-57) is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the Examiner already examined the groups. This is not found persuasive because the inventions as claimed are directed to distinct products that have different design, mode of operation and function. The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL. Claims 46-50 and 58-65 are therefore withdrawn as being drawn to non-elected inventions. Claims 66-77 remain withdrawn. Claims 51-57 are pending.

Response to Argument

1. Applicant's arguments filed September 28, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In the remarks, the Applicant argues that Larsson fails to teach transmitting to the cellular telephone a signal for obtaining device information from the communication device and transmitting a signal to start communication. In response, the Examiner respectfully disagrees. Larsson teaches the printer specification is provided to the print service device via the telephone is to identify what formats the printer is able to print and to identify what route the file has to be sent to get to the printer. The print file comprises data regarding an address to which the print file is to be sent (see at least column 10, lines 22-45).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 51-57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Larsson et al (US 7,028,102).

4. As per claim 51, Larsson et al teach A data receiving device to be used in a system including a data transmission device and said data receiving device which are connected to a data network, and at least one portable terminal, said data receiving device comprising:

a transmission unit for transmitting data receiving device information (printer specification including address) to said portable terminal without recourse to said data network (short range communication) according to a request signal received from said portable terminal without recourse to said data network, the data receiving device information containing connection information for establishing a connection between said data transmission device and said data receiving device; and a connection unit for establishing a connection with said data transmission device according to a signal for requesting the connection starting communication transmitted from said data transmission device based on the device information using said data network (see at least column 11, lines 10-61, column 10, lines 22-45. fig 1).

5. As per claim 52, Larsson et al teach said transmission unit comprises a communication unit communicating in short distances for transmitting the device information to said portable terminal (see at least column 7, lines 10-26).
 6. As per claim 53, Larsson et al teach said communication comprises a wireless communication unit (see at least column 7, lines 10-26).
 7. As per claim 54, Larsson et al teach said communication unit carries out communication based on either Bluetooth®, IEEE 802.11, HomeRF®, or IrDA® (see at least column 7, lines 10-26)..
- As per claim 55, Larsson et al teach said communication unit comprises a wired communication unit (fig 1).
8. As per claim 56, Larsson et al teach said connection information contains an identification code for identifying said data receiving device on said data network (see at least column 10, lines 22-45).
 9. As per claim 57, Larsson et al teach said identification code is an IP address (see at least column 10, lines 22-45).

Conclusion
